Enviroglass Short listed for CRNS Award

Shetland Amenity Trust's glass recycling company Enviroglass is one of four projects to be short listed for a Community Recycling Network for Scotland (CRNS) Innovation Award.

In its third year, the awards have a focus on the social, environmental and economic benefits that can be achieved through effective and innovative local community recycling. The short list was compiled by a panel of experts including representatives of the Scottish Executive, SEPA, the social enterprise sector and award sponsors.

It is now up to the CRNS members to vote for their favourite. The winners will be announced on the 11th March at a conference and award dinner in the Perth Concert Hall.

Mick Clifton, Environment Project Officer at Shetland Amenity Trust, is delighted Enviroglass have been selected: "Being short listed for this innovation award is a credit to our hard working Staff at Enviroglass. They have ensured the high quality of our recycled glass products, which has obviously caught the eye of the CRNS judging panel. We all look forward to hearing the results in March."
